

Women's Conference Spoken Word

A name

The label in which we rise or disguise,

Introduce ourselves as this line

This title that describes the nature of our lives.

Our life gives this line meaning

Portraying ourselves as we walk through this existence wearing

Labels that read

My name is _____

Her name is Esther:

She is an orphan raised from exile and delivered to the throne room; a minority, disenfranchised with trial, but favored by God. She stood before the king to save her people, risking her life to obey, risking luxury for the fear of the Lord. Setting an example for bravery and beauty.

Her name is Rosa Parks:

She was segregated, humiliated, discouraged, and arrested but rose as an icon and world changer. She was crushed but not destroyed, oppressed but unafraid. She stood for truth and loves that led the nation to change.

Her name Amelia Earhart:

She is a pioneer, blazing a path through the sky for other women to fearlessly follow. She rose higher and flew further than any before her. Her legacy is adventure, boldly setting records and proving the capacity of women who soars above all the world's expectations.

Her name is Mother Teresa:

She was born, called, baptized, and canonized. She saved thousands, set an example of Christianity for millions, and served only one. She lived in material poverty, but rich in love, to become a saint. Her life is called selfless and miraculous. She shined bright with love and compassion.

His name is Jesus

For it is not through your names that you are

It is not from your ability that you can

It is through his love, his compassion,

The holy son of man,

The Lord of your heart,

The God of your identity,

For though the world paints a picture of sheer impossibility,

He says, my daughter, you were made beautifully and wonderfully

Courageous in battle and fearfully constructed,

The God of the universe, carefully selected

Your identity

Every feature, every talent,

Each purpose is perfected

By the only one who walked the earth and proved himself as perfect

The King above all kings

The Lamb who was slain
The Lord of our lives
The name above all names